SALT WAR IN INDIA RAPIDLY MOVING TO CRISIS

French Troops to Evacuate District Occupied on Rhine

Army To Be Withdrawn—Papers Will Be Destroyed and Only Those Saved Will Be Such as Are Required for Operations of Bank for International Settlements at Basel

Reparations Commission Expresses Its Satisfaction

(Associated Press)
PARIS, May 17.—The last Rhine bridgehead held by the French army of occupation, was today ordered progressively evacuated. Premier Andre Tardieu, who has been discussing evacuation of the third occupied zone with Ambassador Von Hoersch, of Germany, and high French military authorities this week, announced in a communique that Germany had carried out all the necessary conditions for acceptance of the Young plan.

Under the plan it was provided that the French troops should leave by June 30, but in case Germany ratified the plan with the other countries earlier the way was left for expedient withdrawal.

Two important steps were taken to effect evacuation of the zone.

NEW PLAN EFFECTIVE
While Premier Tardieu was giving orders for the evacuation of the zone, the reparations commission decided that everything necessary had been done to substitute the Young plan for the Dawes plan.

It agreed to destroy the old papers connected with the original reparations obligations, which Germany had turned over to it. After destruction of these, the commission's existence will end.

The commission was one of the most important organizations set up by the Treaty of Versailles. At one time it had such large powers as that of fixing the total reparations Germany owed her war creditors.

REDUCTION OF DEBT

This it set at 132,000,000,000 gold marks, which was progressively reduced to about 36,000,000,000 in the Young plan.

The commission today provided for turning over to the Bank for International Settlements such of its papers as would be useful in the execution of the bank's task of handling Germany's payments.

Germany has deposited with the bank a certificate acknowledging its debt.

CANNERY TENDER CALLS FOR HELP

SEATTLE, May 17.—The coast guard received a call for aid here from the cannery tender "Wishman," whose engines were disabled today off Destruction at the mouth of the Hoh River on the Washington coast. The boat, sixty-seven feet long, owned by Klevenhousen Packing Co., of Astoria, was en route from that port to Alaska.

The cutter "Bismillah" was sent from Port Angeles to the vessel.

M. BRIAND OUTLINES PROPOSALS

Minister Gives Conception of a Future "European Federal Union" of Twenty-Six States

RENEWES FEALTY TO LEAGUE OF NATIONS

Says Organization Could Deal With Many Questions—Invites Opinions From Gov't's

(Associated Press)
PARIS, May 17.—Foreign Minister Briand's conception of a future "United States of Europe" or "European Federal Union," as he proposed organization is more generally called, today was given in a memorandum to the twenty-six European states concerned with France in the plan.

The proposed European federation, the most ambitious project which has been considered since the setting up of the League of Nations, will be far from the close union such as exists among the United States of America, according to M. Briand's memorandum.

LITTLE SIMILARITY
There will even be little similarity between the groups, since the model that is suggested from the European union is a type of regular confederation, without charter of constitution.

The foremost practical questions such as a union might deal with in M. Briand's conception are economic and comprise eventual efforts to lower customs duties of European states among themselves.

The success of the union rests upon a "European conference" and a "European committee." The first would be a sort of deliberative body charged with the study of European international problems. The second would correspond somewhat to the Council of the League of Nations. It would be the executive instrument of the union.

LIMITS SUGGESTIONS
M. Briand purposely limited his suggestions, given out at the Foreign Office today to elementary details. He suggests that certain questions make closer co-ordination of European states necessary. He points out that new economic problems, including customs matters, arise from addition of about 12,000 miles of frontier to the nations of Europe. He suggests that the European union could give attention to this important situation.

MR. STEVENS CRITICIZES BUDGET PLAN

Terms It "Feeble Gesture to British Preference," in Addressing Ottawa Women

CALLS IT "MORE OR LESS FARCE"

OTTAWA, Ont., May 17.—The Dunning Budget, which he characterized as a "feeble gesture to British preference and its weakness in regard to the general progress and expansion of Canada and its interests," was the subject of an address by Hon. H. H. Stevens (Conservative, Vancouver Centre), before the Ottawa Women's Conservative Association last night.

"If there is one country among all the others in the world with a wonderful future ahead of it, it should be Canada," Mr. Stevens told the meeting. "We should have more progress since the war than any other. He have latent wealth greater than any other area in the world."

Local Concern Secures Large Cement Order

VANCOUVER, May 17.—An order for 200 carloads of cement, comprising 40,000 barrels, to be used in the concrete work at the Rukin Dam, has been placed by the British Columbia Electric Railway Company with the British Columbia Cement Company, Limited.

This shipment, which is being delivered at the rate of five cars, 1,000 barrels, a day, represents an expenditure of $120,000, delivered at Rukin. It is only about a third of the total amount of cement which will be required for the completed dam, which is expected to reach 130,000 barrels.

Ontario Accepts Challenge of Premier King

LONDON, Ont., May 17.—The Ontario Government will enter the Dominion election campaign in protest against the statement of Premier King in the House of Commons that the Liberal administration would not give "one five-cent piece for unemployment relief" to any province governed by a Conservative provincial government.

Premier O. Howard Ferguson made this announcement before the Eastern Ontario Conservative convention here yesterday.

He charged that Premier King had by his statement "degraded public life to an extent never heretofore known." The Ontario Government would accept the challenge made by Premier King through his statement, the Ontario Premier said.

Famous Explorer Buried on Festive Day of Native Land

(Associated Press)
SLO, Norway, May 17.—The funeral of Dr. Fridtjof Nansen took place today in a city bright with flags, and gay with martial music. While happy school children wound through the streets singing national songs in celebration of the one hundred and sixteenth anniversary of Constitution Day, Norway's noted explorer and humanitarian was honored at impressive ceremonies in the university.

Only during the actual funeral ceremonies was the gaiety hushed. It being considered there was no anomaly in burying the nation's great son on his great festive day.

TWO-MINUTE SILENCE
The pageantry was suspended in a two-minute silence at noon, when all traffic was stopped, and pedestrians stood uncovered with bowed heads.

The coffin, covered with the Norwegian national flag, lay in state in the central hall of the university. Students stood guard, while among the pallbearers was Capt. Otto Sverdrup, companion of Dr. Nansen in many desperate Polar adventures.

TRIBUTES TO HERO

King Haakon and Crown Prince Olaf were chief mourners in an assemblage of the most eminent personages of the nation. The service was non-denominational. Dr. Nansen belonged to no religious body. The brief ceremony ended with the playing of a funeral oration by Professor Sieland, rector of the university. Speaker Hambro, of the Storting, expressed the nation's sadness at the loss of the "last great man in our present national history."

Young students carried the casket from the hall to a gun carriage drawn by four black horses. The body then was taken to a crematorium, to which it was followed through the streets by many thousands of citizens. When near the crematorium the crowds withdrew, leaving only relatives and near friends to witness the final act, which was without church ceremony.

MATRON IS KILLED

KAMLOOPS, May 17.—Miss Edna Brooke, twenty-seven, matron of Salomon Arm Hospital, was killed Friday evening while driving here to attend the graduating exercises of the 1930 nursing school class of the Royal Inland Hospital. The accident occurred on this side of Notch Hill. The car left the road and upset. Miss Brooke being thrown out and dying soon afterwards. The car was new and Miss Brooke an inexperienced driver. Miss Mary Waugh, of this city, at present a stenographer at Salmon Arm, was in the car, but escaped with shock and bruises.

McLean, First Mate Robert Christian and a sailor, named Thomas, were lost when the schooner Azusa sank off the Jersey coast after being rammed by the steamer City of Atlanta, officers of the City of Atlanta reported when their boat docked today. Four members of the Azusa's crew, three of them Panama Indians and the other a negro cook, were rescued.

Officers of the City of Atlanta, a Savannah Line ship, said they were striking the Jersey coast in a thick fog when their ship rammed the Azusa, a coal schooner. The Azusa went down within a few minutes, but the City of Atlanta was not badly damaged.

CIVIL RESISTANCE VOLUNTEERS PLAN MORE DEPOT RAIDS

Four Hundred Assemble in Bombay to March Today on Salt Works at Wadala—Police Determined to Frustrate Attack—Mrs. Naidu, Indian Woman Leader, to Tour Country

Thirty Go on Hunger Strike Claiming They Were Insulted

(Associated Press)
BOMBAY, May 17.—The "salt war" in Bombay Presidency, tonight appeared to be working to a crisis. While successive groups of civil resistance volunteers poured into Dharasana to carry on the campaign against the Government salt depot there, begun by Mrs. Sarojini Naidu, 400 other volunteers assembled this afternoon in Bombay and planned to march tomorrow on the salt depot at Wadala, six miles away.

A large force of police has been called to frustrate the attempt, the nucleus of their concentration being at Jacob Circle, on the line of march to Wadala. The volunteers changed their plan of marching en masse and decided to split into small groups so as to spread out the police. It was believed they planned to reassemble at Gawardi, which is near the salt pans, and launch a raid from there.

THIRD RAID PROJECTED
A third raid is projected at the Shiroda salt works and the police have made preparations to meet any contingency there.

The third attempt to capture the Dharasana salt pans, made by followers of Mrs. Naidu without her personal leadership, was stopped by police today. The volunteers were halted in the road, as they were in the other forays and surrounded by a cordon of officers. They showed passive resistance as in the other attempts, spinning cloth and singing religious songs.

It is understood that Mrs. Naidu, having begun the Dharasana campaign, feels she need no longer stay at her camp, Untadi. That place will remain her headquarters, but she will tour the country to further the civil disobedience campaign and leave the Dharasana movement in the hands of her council of war.

IMMEDIATE OBJECTIVE
The immediate objective of Mrs. Naidu, who heads the entire civil disobedience campaign now that

Kidnappings Directed by Communists

AMOI, May 18.—Chinese authorities this morning announced that examination of confiscated Communist documents had revealed that Russian Communists were directing Red agitators in China from Vladivostok.

The Russians were said to be furnishing money to various places in China, especially Shanghai. The authorities said further that the documents revealed partial proof that a large percentage of the kidnapping of foreigners and wealthy Chinese were directed by the Communists in order to obtain, from ransoms, funds to finance the Communist cause in China. Documents which are to be examined, the authorities announced, were expected to reveal conclusive proof of this phase of the Red activities. The authorities examined four Chinese Communists who had been arrested, but their statements were carefully guarded.

Tomorrow to Be Last Chance for Provincial List

Monday is the last day upon which those who are qualified to vote at provincial elections may have their names placed on the voters' list. In order to do so it will be necessary for the applicant to attend in person before the Registrar of Voters at the Court House, and apply to him for registration.

Qualified voters should not confuse the preparation of the voters' list for the provincial elections and for the Dominion polling. In the latter case a special list will be prepared for the approaching Federal election. Enumerators for the preparing of this list are already taking names from house to house. This compilation has no relation whatever to the provincial list.

For obtaining registration on the provincial voters' list, it is necessary for anyone whose name is not now on the list for that purpose to visit the Registrar of Voters at the Court House on Monday, and have his name put on.

SAFEGUARDING CHIEF ISSUE IN NOTTINGHAM

Contest in Central Division of Lace City Depends on Retention of Duties

THREE-CORNERED FIGHT AGAIN

By THOMAS T. CHAMBERLAIN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, May 17.—A set battle on the question of safeguarding of home industries—the Conservatives' modern method of protection—will take place in Nottingham Central, where a by-election is to be held shortly. Most of the big guns of the three political parties will descend on the constituency.

Candidates are Mr. T. J. O'Connor (Cons.), Capt. Reginald Berkeley (Lib.), and Mr. A. E. Watson, Labor Cooperative.

The by-election is due to the retirement of Sir A. J. Bennett, Conservative, elected last year with a majority of 2,968, in a three-cornered contest.

Safeguarding is practically the only issue to which this trinity of candidates, willingly or unwillingly, will be compelled to devote themselves.

Rt. Hon. David Lloyd George, Liberal leader, will speak on the very eve of the poll and will doubtless reveal his views on the present position and tendency of the safeguarding movement generally.

application of power; improvement of food factors; storage of power; interconnection of different powers; producing plants; safety measures; information and education; reduction of costs of construction; large central plants and large power in handling supplies, and distribution of supplies of power.

FOUR PROBLEMS

In dealing with the subjects at the coming conference in Berlin it is set out as the basis of the discussions that the world at the present time is facing four groups of problems in connection with this subject. One of these has to do with the engineering end and relates to the available power in concentrated form in coal and natural gas, while the sun is providing constantly new sources of waterpower.

In this connection it is set out that the minimum waste of power and the most reliable methods for utilizing and broadening the field of application are the aims of the power engineer.

A second problem is that connected with economics. To open new markets for power, and the improvement of such markets in existence and provide fields for investments are the aims of the power economist.

The field of administration is set out as another of the important factors in connection with the power situation of the day. Wise legislation, the protection of best interests and the more extended use of power are set out as the aims sought by the power economist.

To fuse technical and business education into one harmonious whole is set out as the aim of the new education which forms the fourth factor which has to be faced in the power problems of the time. There is, it is stated, very important work to be done in this line.

Mr. Burden will be by the St. Duches of Richmond on May 30, from Montreal.

TOTAL INSECURITY FOR FOREIGNERS IN CHINA PREVAILING

(Canadian Press Cable via Reuters)

SHANGHAI, May 17.—Total insecurity prevailed today for foreigners in China. Piracy and banditry are reported to be increasing in a sensational manner. Yesterday three ships were taken by pirates on the Yangtze River and an undetermined number of passengers killed.

Several villages in the neighborhood of Shanghai have been pillaged. Armed bands of marauders are besieging Hankow. Foreign missionaries escaped the massacre of natives which attended the siege.

The wearing of Gandhi caps has been banned in Sholapur and the resistance leaders are said to consider that ban a challenge which should be taken. Meanwhile police have replaced a large number of troops in Sholapur and the city appears to be calming down.

Contrary to previous reports, the 225 volunteers who were arrested yesterday at Dharasana have not been released. COMMONS ENDS EXCITING WEEK

Ottawa House Considers Tariff Changes of Budget—The Dunning and Mr. Cahan

(Canadian Press)

OTTAWA, May 17.—Parliament after a busy and exciting week today takes a holiday. It has gone through a week devoted to the budget debate, climaxed by the division which resulted in the stamp of approval being placed on the first budget delivered by Hon. Charles A. Dunning, Minister of Finance.

The House of Commons yesterday settled back to the somewhat monotonous duty of discussing the individual tariff changes announced in the budget. The whole day was given to the quantity of tea in commodities.

For at least a week or ten days the House will be occupied with considering the voluminous individual tariff changes in committee of ways and means.

500 TARIFF CHANGES

Comparatively slow progress was made on the 500 tariff changes. Practically no item passed without a discussion of some kind, and some did not get through without a regular miniature debate. Nervous became frayed toward the end, and the day concluded in a verbal clash between Hon. Mr. Dunning and Mr. C. H. Cahan (Conservative, St. George-St. George), in which the minister said his honor as such was at stake.

The House was discussing the item dealing with the tea duty reduction. Mr. Cahan observed there had been a great deal of discussion with regard to the quantity of tea in bond on the day the budget was delivered, and alleged larger quantities of tea had been transferred. The House should have information on the point.

JUMPS TO HIS FEET

Jumping to his feet, Mr. Dunning said it was unfair to leave such a question until Friday night, making an answer until Monday impossible. He asked if Mr. Cahan wished to convey the idea that some person in the tea trade knew beforehand the contents of the budget.

Mr. Cahan said he was not accustomed to making imputations. He would charge outright and not dodge around anything. He had not the slightest doubt of the minister's integrity but he believed he should know the rumors going around.

Mr. Dunning promised to secure the desired information and he ventured the opinion that the tea dealers sought to be in as safe a position as possible as soon as the budget was delivered. Business, he said, often was affected by a pending budget, and the commercial world watched developments closely. This closed the incident.

MR. A. W. NEILL

Several Saskatchewan members objected to the imposition of the countervailing duties on egg imports. They favored a seasonal tariff. Mr. A. W. Neill (Independent, Comox-Alberni), asked British Columbia egg producers were behind the legislation solidly, and he objected to members from the Prairies presuming to speak for the entire West.

The Senate adjourned until Tuesday the debate on the third reading of the bill prohibiting the clearance of liquor to United States. There will be no further enlargements, Senator Willoughby, Conservative leader, said.

DELETERIOUS EFFECT

The effect of the Dunning Budget scheme, second to none in my belief of inter-imperial trade, I hold this, however, that if we in Canada give a preference to British goods in our markets they should extend the same preference to us in their markets.

Among the delectable viands was the traditional Cameronian pie, which has come to be a recognized dish for the occasion.

Mr. O. H. Wheeler, president of the section, occupied the chair of honor during supper, and Mr. R. D. McCaw acted as chairman during the informal, impromptu, after-supper programme, when the picnicers gathered about the huge bonfire. Community singing, recitations and humorous anecdotes made an excellent entertainment.

Your Eyes

When father discovered that the "rare antique" of which mother was so fond was one of hundreds turned out by a Toronto factory, he thought he had a good laugh on him.

He knew that nothing is necessarily good just because it is old.

Neither is anything necessarily good just because it is new.

However, every day brings ample proof that in the science of optometry the newest procedure is the best. That is because it is the most natural. It depends on the ability of the eyes themselves, through natural but neglected processes of co-ordination, to build up their own return to activity and health.

This new phase of the science of optometrics is based on the fact that natural correction is better than artificial relief. It dispenses with lenses whenever it may safely do so—and when it cannot entirely dispense with them, it tends to reduce their strength—permitting the lens to do less work and the eye to do more without fatigue.

That's interesting, isn't it?

And doesn't it foretell a day when eyes instead of getting weaker with each generation will commence to get stronger?

We believe so—that's why our office is equipped to give this newer, better service.

LINFIELD CAPTURES IRISH CHARITY CUP

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, May 17.—Linfield defeated Belfast Celtic by two goals to nil in the final soccer match for the Irish Charity Cup today.

The law is primarily designed to help those French workers whose rate is below economic standard, in other words, those unable to save enough from their wages to meet the ordinary risks of life.

The scheme is contributory both by employer and employee. Payments by both are based on wages paid. Benefits cover sickness, premature invalidity, old age, death and maternity.

are in the former Hotel Savoy Unveiled, where many Americans have stopped before while touring Switzerland. The beds and furniture have been stored in the cellar along with the kitchen utensils, and the bankers have their offices in former guest rooms. The directors' room appears to be like the former dining-room. Nothing has been done to remodel the Cherry Garden Building given by the City of Basel to the bank.

The signature of a trust agreement will be placed Monday in Paris. On that day also the bank expects to receive advice of transfer by S. Parker Gilbert, agent-general for reparations, under the Dawes plan, of 145,000,000 gold marks from the Reparations Commission. The amount will be placed on the books of the international bank, but the actual money will remain provisionally in Berlin.

NOT COMMUNICATIVE

The bankers are more secretive now than even during the Baden-Baden meeting of the organization commission. However, it seems clear that the points at issue are, first, allocation of the loan to various centres; second, the rate of interest; third, the price at which the bonds will be issued to the underwriters; and, fourth, who is to pay the discount.

Many persons here think that the yield will be on a 6 per cent basis. The shares of the International Bank are in demand, especially in Paris, where they are at a 100 per cent premium.

It is hoped to complete the discussions on the Young bonds so as to permit their issue about May 20.

CENTRAL SCHOOL REUNION SET

Interesting Reminiscences Recalled by Gathering of Former Pupils—

DATES BACK TO COLONIAL DAYS

The Central School reunion will take place here on Friday and Saturday, Mr. C. B. Sylvester, who has taken an active part in the arrangements, has gathered the accompanying data about the school and its principals.

THE FIRST SCHOOL

The first school here was a log school, called Buns School, built in 1866. The schoolmaster, Mr. Bun, lived in one end, and his family in the other. The school was kept open until 1869, when a sign was painted on the side, "Closed, not for repairs, but for lack of funds." Each pupil in those days was charged $2 per month, and a few adults. The subjects taught then were known mostly as the three R's—reading, writing and arithmetic. Those were quite sufficient to carry one along the road of education.

Among Central School boys who went to Buns School in the days of the "skits," were: W. A. Chambers, 1732 Fairfield Road; J. A. Sayward, 1033 Pemberton Road; J. A. Sayward, Moss Street; W. J. McKeon, city; Phil Hare, 629 Johns Street; Thomas Wood, 1029 Caledonia; A. W. Palmer, 500 Boleskine Road; W. G. Cameron, 510 Trutch Street.

Additional names will be welcomed by the committee. At the time the girls' school was situated in a building on Broughton Street.

FAST PRINCIPALS

The following are the principals from 1872-1930:
C. C. McKenzie 1872-1878
James Kaye 1878-1880
J. McKennie 1880-1883
J. A. Halliday 1883-1884
S. B. Netherby 1884-1887
J. D. Gillis 1887-1890
George H. Deane 1890-1898
W. N. Winney 1898-1911
James E. Hamilton 1911-1912
J. A. Cunningham 1912-1921
Ernest Butterworth 1921-1930

THE CELEBRATION

On Friday, May 23, at 8.30 p.m., the Central School boys will have a banquet at the Empress Hotel, and it will be restricted to Central School boys. After the banquet, there will be a dance in the ballroom, from 9.30 p.m. to 2 a.m., and this will be open to the public.

Next day, May 24, 10 a.m., Tom Woods, late manager of the Albion Stove Works, who was the first boy to pull the bell when it was first erected, will be honored with the task of doing it again.

In the afternoon, from 3 to 5, J. R. Raddolph, another 1866 pupil, with old schoolboys, assisted by a committee of Central School girls, will receive. A memorial photograph will be taken.

At the same time the Native Sons and Daughters of British Columbia will present the medal annually given for the most worthy citizen.

EARLY DAYS OF SCHOOLS

In 1865 the Hudson's Bay Company established public schools in Victoria, under the supervision of Rev. E. Cridge, M.A., each of the teachers being paid $750 salary from the Colonial exchequer, together with fees ranging from $80 to $250 per annum.

The first free school system was established in 1865, when the sum of $10,000 was set apart by the Vancouver Island House of Assembly as a school fund for that year, and the late Alfred Waddington was appointed superintendent of education.

1866

At the union of the colonies of British Columbia and Vancouver Island in 1866, the Island free school system was virtually defunct, although the schools in Victoria and a few other places were kept open for two years longer.

The Common School Ordinance, 1869, and Common School Amendment Ordinance, 1870, put educational matters on a somewhat better footing throughout the colony, with the exception of Victoria, where the tax levied for by law was paid for one year, and then voted down.

1872

"An act respecting the public schools," which passed the Legislative Assembly in April, 1872, put educational matters in Victoria and the province on a firm footing, and is the basis of the present law.

Federal Cabinet Rules Law Must Take Its Course

OTTAWA, May 17.—The law will take its course in the case of Invald (Bing) Anderson, alias Emmett Sloane, of Berlin, N.H., well-known ski jumper, who stands sentenced to be hanged at Sydney, N.S., on Tuesday next for murder. Cabinet having review the case, decided there would be no interference with the verdict of the trial court, it was announced today.

There have been allegations regarding the mental condition of the condemned man, but examination has established him as sane, it was declared.

Education Fellowship To Meet on May 27

There will be a meeting of the New Education Fellowship on Thursday, May 27, at the library of Victoria College, beginning at 8.15 o'clock, when a discussion will take place on the future activities of the section and its line of action. Members are asked to reserve this date.

Jurors Advocate Allowing Oakalla Inmates Tobacco

NEW WESTMINSTER, May 17.—A strong recommendation that the regulation prohibiting inmates of Oakalla prison from having tobacco be cancelled, is included in the report presented by the grand jury at the Assize Court session Friday afternoon. It was proposed that the prisoners be given the same privileges regarding tobacco as are allowed in the Dominion penitentiaries.

The report recommended that the prison cells be cleaned, beds opened up, and any food stored by prisoners in cells be removed at the time the cells are vacated. The jury reported that food in cells was wrapped in paper and blankets or stored elsewhere by the prisoners.

In the interests of the safety of prisoners working around moving machinery, particularly the licence plates' stamping machine and the laundry machinery, which were insufficiently guarded, the jury recommended that such matters should be looked after by the prisoners.

THE SONG OF CENTRAL SCHOOL BELL

I've called them here from every where.

Of generations three: I've called to them, make haste, prepare.

For men you'll grow to be. I've watched their merry faces when they gathered at the door of mine.

With book and slate each urchin then Hastened to be in line.

I rang each birthday, year by year. As back and forth they trod, I've hung so silent every morn.

When prayer they said to God. Give us this day our daily bread; Forgive us, Lord, they asked; Then silently with sweet amen

Began their daily task. I watched them when they older grew.

When walking, lad and lass, Vowing many joys they'd know When they were through with class.

Together to the altar they. Went hand in hand one day. Where that same lass promised, to Love, honor and obey.

Again I watched them as they sent Young Jack and Su to school. And by my sounding, calling loud, They learned the golden rule;

To love thy neighbor as thyself. To comfort those who mourn; To rest give unto thy neighbor.

Never turn from them with scorn. I've rung them comfort when in age With hair of silver grey, They sat beside the fireside bright Watching each grandchild play. I hung in natural silence when The cortege passed the school. The school of generations.

Our dear old Central School. By Mrs. T. Alexander, 1159 Yates Street.

TIMBER SCALED SHOWS INCREASE

Total Exceeds March Figures in Forest Products of British Columbia

The timber scaled in the province of British Columbia for the month of April, the figures for which have just been compiled by the Forest Branch, show an increase over the same month of last year, and also over the month of March of the present year. There were 275,335,007 feet, board measure, scaled in April of this year, as compared with 262,062,191 feet scaled in March of the same year, and 230,460,800 feet in April, 1929.

Kennel Club's Show At Armories Proves Outstanding Success

English Setter Owned by Mainlander Judged Best Dog in Show—Officials Laud Class of Canines Benched at Exhibition

The formation of a canine league of nations would have been a comparatively easy matter at the Armories yesterday, if the aristocrats of dogdom on exhibition there had been league minded; for there were representatives of many countries in the kennels at the show held under the auspices of the Victoria City Kennel Club. Among them were: English Setters from China; Greyhounds, Shepherd dogs and Schauers from Germany; Chihuahuas from Mexico; St. Bernards from Switzerland; Boston bull terriers from the United States; Maltese from Malta; Schip-porkas from Belgium; bulldogs from England and terriers from Scotland and Ireland.

The show was easily the most successful ever sponsored by the local organization in point of numbers and variety of dogs entered, as well as in the general excellence of the breeds, the judges agreeing that the West had no better dogs, particularly in the sporting classes. George Kynoch of Winnipeg, who is an extensive breeder of setters, stated that the English and Irish setters could not be beaten anywhere, and that it was too bad the Pacific Northwest was so far from the big centres like New York, preventing a lot of money from being spent in the country for the purchase of good stock. George Canfield, of Santa Monica, corroborated Mr. Kynoch's statement, with the remark that the English and Irish setters with the spaniels were ahead of anything he had seen on the Pacific Coast.

G. Gough, from the Mainland, captured the trophy offered for the best dog or bitch in the show, any breed, with Groeswen Rock, an English setter, which was also adjudged the best sporting dog, as well as the best gun dog in the show.

A splendid dog in the show was the St. Bernard dog, Peter, which took first prize in its class, owned by Mrs. J. Nairn, of Oak Bay. In the toy classes, there were a good many entries, the Pekingese being especially noteworthy. In this class, Mrs. Cassels, of Seattle, took first for best in breed and novice class, with Moussemie of Shantung, and Mrs. K. Hamilton, of the same city, was awarded the reserve winners ribbon with an entry bred at the Shantung Kennels.

A chow named Ning H., owned by Mrs. C. H. Howell, Seattle, created a lot of interest among the fanciers attending the show. It had swept the show at New Westminster, being adjudged the best dog in any breed there, but took second place in the Boston terrier last night.

Alta Piper, owned by Mrs. H. McChoy, won the trophy for best dog owned by a member of the Victoria City Kennel Club.

VICTORIA IS LOVELY GARDEN

SO SAYS M. WILBOIS, FRENCH EDUCATIONIST, AFTER SHORT STAY IN CITY

Paris Professor Explains How Grange Has Avoided Unemployment Problem

"Victoria is not a city; it is a lovely garden!" declared M. Wilbois, distinguished French traveler and educationist, who was in the city on Friday and Saturday in the course of a trip through Canada.

M. Wilbois, who has been in this country for the past five months under a system of exchange of teachers between the University of Montreal and various Paris schools of recognized standing, recently completed a course of six lectures in Montreal, and came out to the Pacific Coast before returning to the French capital to resume his duties there.

"Your West is just as different from Canada's East as Quebec is different from France," he said in the course of an attempt to summarize some of his observations since coming to this continent. In Quebec, for instance, he had noticed that the people sold wood which they collected while clearing land, whereas in the Prairies and British Columbia they burned it. France and Quebec were more alike in this regard than with small things.

NO UNEMPLOYMENT
 In reply to a question concerning unemployment in France, M. Wilbois said that this problem had not yet arisen in his country. On the contrary, they had, since the war, brought in numbers of Italians and Spaniards to supply their labor market because there were not enough French people to do the work.

Quite unconsciously, but nevertheless effectively, France had avoided the problem of unemployment, which is such a serious matter in England and the United States, by keeping a fine balance between machine and hand labor. It seems that no deliberate or conscious effort had been made either on the part of industry or the Government to limit the introduction of labor-saving machinery into the big factories, but each of the industries, as individuals, has avoided it, knowing that the installation of such machinery would precipitate serious strikes.

The result is that, while France may not boast the enormous output of manufactures which some other countries have, she is free from the stupendous problem of unemployment.

"The great machines used in industry in this country have displaced man labor and created a grave problem in the 4,000,000 unemployed," he noted in referring to the condition in the United States. "In France, before installing labor-saving machines, the question of its effect on unemployment is gone into. It is studied from the humanistic as well as the economic standpoint. In France agricultural machinery is little used for another reason also, namely, that the holdings are very small, and it would prove too costly to move the machines from place to place for all they would be able to do."

Apparently M. Wilbois would like to see France a little more interested in what is going on in other countries. In reply to a comment that France was regarded by many other peoples as a very isolated island, he said: "Yes, it is a misfortune that we do not desire to go out of ourselves more than we do."

HELPS FRIENDSHIP
 Professor Wilbois' school in Paris, known as "Ecole d'Administration," conducts night classes for young business men between the ages of twenty-five and thirty chiefly, giving them training and advice in business management. The system of exchange teachers under which he came to the University of Montreal last Winter, has been in operation for about four years, and apart from the benefits which it has in informing the teachers and students who come together under the arrangement, it is working for more friendly understanding between the two countries, he believes.

M. Wilbois addressed an audience of teachers, students and lovers of the French language in Victoria on Friday night.

Fire Hazard—The fire hazard throughout the greater part of the province, according to the week-end report made by the forest branch, is somewhat greater than at the end of last week. The reports from the different sections of the country indicate a condition of dry and weather, with hot and windy conditions in the Prince George and Prince Rupert districts. From Carleton Place the report indicates that the situation is very hazardous. The number of fires to date this season has been 199, an increase of seven for the same period over that of last year. In 1928 there were eighty-one fires for the same period.

Fashion Fancies. By Marie Belmont

Prints and pleats, boleros and capes, even capes and scarf collars—all the clever details of the current mode—influence the new lounging pajamas. Realizing that it would be a pity to relegate these charming costumes to the seclusion of the boudoir, the smartest women have brought them out to grace the drawing room at the tea hour and even the dining-room during informal dinners. And all manner of fabrics are used—cotton and silk, plain and monotype fabrics. A printed black and pink (by the way, one of the favored color combinations of the season) flat crepe develops the lounging pajamas illustrated today. The short bolero jacket has a three-quarter split sleeve and the same treatment is used on the pajamas, which are split to the knee, revealing pleated pink georgette insets. The blouse is entirely pleated, as are the sleeves, which are exposed from the elbows.

New Ideas for Lingerie

Pajamas and Nightdresses Follow the Prevailing Styles With Flares and Bloused Effects

Pajamas become more and more elaborate in design, yet most of the styles are very neat too, the trousers having a broad hip-yoke which buttons at the side, and the bodice being just a sleeveless tuck-in blouse. Some girls favor a nautical style, will bell-bottomed trousers and a sailor collar, whilst others have the bloused bodice and baggy trousers of the harem.

In our climate sleeveless styles often prove rather inadequate. That is why a home-dressmaker of my acquaintance bought extra material when making her pajamas. In order to have a loose jumper with sleeves. She finished the deep V-neck of the jumper with a bow, "for fancy." This she intends to pack in her holiday case; the extra jumper being ready to slip on, either without the puffed bodice or over it, on chilly nights. Don't you agree that the idea of a three-piece alumber suit is one worth copying?

Nightdresses have deep lace yokes and often a good deal of lace insertion. Many tucks are used upon the shoulders and below the yokes, and sometimes smocking is seen. There is also a new "balloon" fashion in nighties. The effect is achieved simply by stitching narrow ribbon or binding material along each side of the front and across the back of the garment, the skirt part being gathered slightly into this band. Nightdresses are much shorter than they have been, so that they look more than ever like frocks.

Flared undies require a lot of material, of course, and that is why they are not favored by girls with small incomes. Still, a very slight flare might be introduced with advantage into many of the nightdress styles.

The new dressing gowns are very pretty, having the same bloused effect as the other lingerie. One I even had a hip-yoke, and was buttoned at one side instead of tying. It was made of jasp silk in a clear, bright shade of green, and had a narrow binding of black to match the waist and black mules. Dressing jackets are fanciful, being made up in all shades and patterns. Loosely-fitting sleeves, or no sleeves at all, are the order of the day, both for smoking jackets and pajama jackets.

CONCERT RENDERED BY CHURCH CHOIR

A very enjoyable programme was staged at St. Martin's-in-the-Field's Church in the way of a sacred recital, when the St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church Choir was heard under the direction of Mrs. Jesse Longfield on Thursday evening last.

Solos were rendered by Mrs. William Grant, Mr. A. W. Trevett and Mr. D. R. Park. A quartette was composed of Mrs. G. A. Downard, Miss Scowcroft and Messrs. Draper and Trevett. Other assisting artists were Miss Isabelle Crawford, Mrs. P. W. Hawes and a violin solo by Mr. Longfield.

The programme was as follows: organ, "March of the Priests" (Mendelssohn); anthem, "Angel Voices Ever Singing" (Vine Hall), solo by Miss Isabelle Crawford; solo, "Come Unto Me" (Coenen), Mr. A. W. Trevett; anthem, "The Lost Chord" (Sullivan); solo, "Beyond the Dawn" (Sanderson), Mrs. William Grant; violin, "Serenade" (Schubert), Mr. Jesse Longfield; anthem, "Hark, Hark, My Soul" (Shelley), solos by Mrs. P. W. Hawes and Miss Crawford; solo, "Babylon" (Watson), Mr. D. R. Park; quartette, "Saviour, When Night Invades the Sky" (Shelley), Mrs. Downard, Miss Scowcroft, Messrs. Draper and Trevett; violin, "Andantino" (Lemare), Mr. Longfield; anthem, "Son of My Soul" (Turner).

"Poppy-E" Has Been Opened as New Tea Shop

The "Poppy-E," a charming tea shop opened on Friday at 747 Fort Street, is designed to strike a note of artistry and service which is unique in Victoria. Miss Ella B. Pottinger, manager, has spent some time in the East, where she has made a thorough study of different methods of conducting such an establishment. Recently she has acquired and redecorated these premises, with the intention of serving breakfasts, luncheons, teas and suppers from the hours of 8 a.m. to 7:30 p.m.

The tasteful color scheme has been carefully planned, combining the hues of yellow, orange and violet, on a background of green. The small tables and chairs made by the Hartley Furniture Company, are also of green, with black trimmings. Lighted by "Ships' Lanterns" of brass, the whole effect is striking in the extreme. A window bay has been fitted up to accommodate those who wish to wait for a time. The gallery is intended for the use of private parties, of which Miss Pottinger intends to make a specialty. The interior decoration, executed by Mr. W. H. Johnston, reflects great credit through choice of design and finish. A home-like atmosphere is the aim of the management, and the cooking will be directed toward that end with an all-white staff.

Miss Pottinger is well known in Victoria, and her many friends join in wishing her the best of luck in her venture.

An Irish girl was imported from the Emerald Isle to act as general servant for a middle-class household. Her mistress suggested to her the propriety of sending a postcard to her relatives with news of her safe arrival and assurance of her welfare. The girl did so, and added the following brief impression of her new environment: "I came here in a cab without a horse; they play the piano with their feet; and they shout at people in the hall that aren't there!"

Family Share in Angling Honors

Mr. J. Schmitt and family, of Victoria, with catch of twenty-six rainbow trout, caught trolling at Forest Lake on May 10 and 11. They were guests at Kiltia Lodge.

the Qualicum Beach Challenge Cup against Mrs. Brankston's choir and St. Andrew's Ladies' Choir.

Miss Minnie Humphries won the Province Shield for the pianoforte playing of her own selection.

Jack Rutherford won the Fletcher Cup for the highest marks in the festival, and Miss Dorothy Trawford was presented with the Gyro Club award for highest marks in the vocal class.

WINS CONTRALTO CLASS
Mrs. Frank Reynolds won the gold medal in the contralto open. She was complimented by the adjudicator for evenness of tone, pure diction and fine expression. He said all the competitors had lovely voices and good production, as the markings below indicate.

The Eka's Shield was won by Miss L. Campbell and Miss Isabel Johnston in the junior and school choir competition.

Throughout the festival school choirs of fine standard entertained in a magnificent way, and the constant praise of the adjudicator testified to the excellence of their performances, and the splendid advancement of the standard of former years.

ADJUDICATORS PLEASE
Noticeable at the festival was the sportsmanship that prevailed among competitors, and especially among the younger set. Most decisions were in accord with the majority.

Mrs. J. Huntley-Green in all her adjudications, built up with constructive criticisms, and never allowed an opportunity to pass where advice could be offered. In pianoforte finals the observant competitors wisely demonstrated that they had profited by the advice.

Major Bullock-Webster, of Victoria, proved very popular with his decisions and helpful suggestions in the elocution contests.

J. Burton-Kirch, of Vancouver, in a kind and efficient manner always enlivened with humorous remarks, gave unstinted opinions and advice with his constructive criticisms, which were greatly appreciated.

A feature of the evening's performance was the artistic presentation by Mrs. Kirch, of a group of three classical selections, and to a rousing encore gave a most beautiful interpretation of John Ireland's "I Have Three Ours."

Miss Isabelle P. Coursier, of Victoria, and Miss E. Dorothy Robinson proved excellent adjudicators for the folk dancing, which was a feature of the evening's performance.

Good Business

From Tourists

UCLUELET (By Mail).—Business on the West Coast generally is good and an improvement is expected as the season advances. This is reflected in the building activities in Ucluelet. A considerable addition to the Hayview Lodge is now under construction. This hotel was opened less than a year ago, and, owing to the increasing tourist trade, is being expanded to provide accommodation for a larger number of visitors this year. Besides this, several new houses are under construction and there have also been several land deals put through.

Retiring Primate Had Large Part in Church's Progress

Archbishop Matheson Was of Scottish Descent. Born in Manitoba and Only Canadian-Born Primate—Church of England in Canada Has About 260,000 Members

Dignitary Possessed of Attractive Personality

THE citizens of Victoria will recall the anxiety felt here at the time of the consecration last September of Christ Church Cathedral, concerning the grave illness of Archbishop Matheson and of his consequent inability to participate in the dedicatory services. Pressed by the weight of years—he is seventy-seven years of age—he has announced his resignation as Primate of All Canada to take effect next September, though he will retain the Archbishopric of Rupert's Land, Manitoba. As a recent guest within the city's gates, as a native son of the West, a most worthy product of Canadian life and as the presiding head of the Church of England in Canada, Archbishop Matheson's career has a manifold interest.

Of the stout stock of Scottish set—Samuel Pritchard Matheson was born brought out by Lord Selkirk, born September 20, 1852, at Kill-done, on the banks of the Red River, near the Fort Garry of that day. Baptized in the Presbyterian faith, as was his distinguished predecessor, Archbishop Macdonald, and the still more distinguished Dr. Coemo Gordon Lang, Archbishop of Canterbury, he was adopted by an Anglican aunt and became an ardent Scottish contribution to the Church of England. The boy became a thoroughgoing Westerner, and more particularly a citizen of Winnipeg and Manitoba. He was educated at St. John's School and in St. John's College, where he later was Professor of Theology. He was ordained to the priesthood in 1878, was Dean of Prince Rupert's Land in 1902, Coadjutor Bishop in 1903, and third Bishop and Archbishop of the second Metropolitan in 1905, and Primate of All Canada in 1908.

It has been given to Archbishop Matheson to play a worthy part in the expansion and consolidation of the Church of England in Western Canada. Preceding him was that great master builder of this communion in the West, Archbishop Machray, one of the two outstanding names in Canadian Anglican history, of which Archbishop Strachan of Ontario is the other. Arriving in primitive Port Garry in 1865, Robert Machray wrote his name upon the ever-widening frontiers of the new land and to quote Canon Vernon in "The Old Church in the New Dominion" "as a great educator, as a great and far-seeing bishop, his contribution can scarcely be overestimated." His coadjutor, Samuel Pritchard Matheson, was a worthy successor. From 1903 to 1911 he had built eighty-nine churches.

SHARED NATIONAL GROWTH

His share in the nation-wide operations of the Church of England began at the notable Winnipeg Conference in 1890, to which this church owes so much, of which Canon Matheson was one of the secretaries, and the sequel of which was the formation of the General Synod of Canada in Toronto in 1893, an act which drew together the scattered dioceses and provinces into a unified national church. Following Bishop Machray, as first president of the Synod became first Primate of All Canada, and along with Dr. Lewis, of Montreal, the first Archbishop appointed in the Anglican communion throughout the world other than those of the historic sees of Canterbury and York, Dublin and Armagh. Just as fittingly Bishop Matheson became the fourth Primate in 1909, an office which he now, after twenty-one years, is passing on to more vigorous hands. It is significant of the increasing Canadian character of the Church of England in Canada that he was the only one of the four Primates who was Canadian-born.

ARCHBISHOP'S PERSONALITY

Stalwart of frame, with a flowing grey beard, his presence has always carried a fraternal atmosphere. None of the other dignitaries of the Canadian church, perhaps, is more affectionately esteemed than his aged and honored head. His personal qualities are matched by a genial wisdom. As one has said, all attribute to this patriarchal churchman the qualities of superior intellect, of gentleness, of humility, kindness and human sympathy. The most human of men, he has

Indian "Chariot of God"

Temple of Bodhidharma, Burma

INDIA is noted, not only for the many gorgeous and beautiful temples within her borders but also for those places of worship known as Rathas. The word ratha is of Sanskrit origin and means literally "wheeled vehicle," "chariot" or "car of God." In its present sense it refers to an isolated shrine or temple cut out of a single block or boulder of granite, though most of the Indian Rathas have in addition to such crude foundations an ornate mason door, vestibule or even a tower built of huge granite stones. There are five of these in a row near Mahavallipur in Burma, and they bear the names borrowed from the heroes of the Mahabharata, and one of the most elaborate and beautiful of the series is that great temple of Bodhidharma, soaring 170 feet above the jungle landscape. It is built of granite blocks in typical Burmese style of architecture, rises nine stories from its square base and is the only one of its kind ever erected of permanent materials by Buddhists in India.

Who commenced the building of the beautiful temple and when are matters of doubt, but certain ancient inscriptions over the ornate doorway leave no doubt as to the date on which it was completed. The latter date is 1299 A.D., this being the year of the reign of Narai-din, Sultan of Bengal.

Seeks to Sell Largest Pearl; Fears Bandits

SHANGHAI, May 13.—A pearl which the would-be vendor claims is of 663 carats' weight and the largest gem of its kind in the world, has been offered for sale here. He values it at $1,500,000. The hawker is Major U. Mohideen, who presents himself as a Singapore jewel dealer. Alleging that he fears kidnappers who might force him to give up the jewel, he lives in seclusion and keeps his treasure in a bank vault.

The Major calls the gem "The Pearl of Asia" and claims it was a gift to the Manchu emperor, Chien Lung, from the Shah of Persia. Chien Lung sat on the Dragon throne in old Peking from 1736 to 1796. Where Major Mohideen obtained the jewel and upon what he

Pre-emptive original suit bids should be so regulated as to show a specific maximum number of deliverable tricks massed wholly or principally in the suit so bid. Practical experience has proven that the number of tricks shown should be in accordance with the following tabulation:

Number of Odd Tricks Bid

Three (Major Suits only).

Four (Major or Minor).

Five (Minor Suits only).

Number of Probable Tricks Held

It will be observed from the foregoing tabulation that pre-emptive suit bids of three are restricted to Major suits only. This is because a pre-emptive suit bid should indicate game probability with but the average expectancy of support, namely, with but three supporting tricks in hand of partner. This average number, while sufficient for game with a seven probable trick hand with a Major suit as trump, is insufficient for game if such suit is a Minor; consequently pre-emptive Minor suit bids are made only when holding at least eight probable tricks, which, when held, call for a pre-emptive bid of four.

It will also be noted that pre-emptive five bids are restricted to Minor suits; as to start with a bid of more than four in a Major suit would show approximately eleven probable tricks in hand, to invite a six bid by partner if holding but one supporting trick.

Thus, pre-emptive bids of no more than the number of tricks required for game should never be confused with bids of a greater number. In contract bidding, together with the foregoing table, becomes pertinent when we find that one South player in the Duplicate Contract Game in which the above deal arose opened the bidding with five Clubs, which, West passing, North carried to six Clubs. Thus, both players were partially at fault for the sacrifice of a game hand—South because of his bid of five Clubs with but an eight probable trick hand, and North because of advancing a pre-emptive game bid by partner to a slam contract with inadequate values.

SALIENT POINTS OF THE BIDDING
Auction: South, with eight probable tricks massed principally in one suit, bids four Clubs originally, concluding the bidding.

Contract: In Contract, as in Auction, South opens the bidding with four Clubs, which, West passing, North carries to five Clubs. It should be noted that North assists with but two supporting tricks—the Ace of Spades and the Ace of Diamonds. While theoretically North to assist a pre-emptive bid should hold three supporting tricks, practically such assistance should be given if holding but two, as the needed game trick can frequently be obtained in the play.

THE PLAY
West opens the King of Spades. The Dummy going down, South (Declarer) wins with the Ace in Dummy and leads the Nine of Hearts, which East covers with the Ten and South refuses to win. East now plays the Six of Clubs which South wins with the Ace, leads the Three of Spades from Dummy, trumping with the Two of Clubs and leads two rounds of trumps to exhaust the remaining adverse Clubs. He next leads the Queen of Diamonds which is won by East with the King, concluding the play as South must make the remaining tricks.

In reference to the foregoing, it will be noted that two South players failed to make five odd in Clubs because they failed to lead Hearts before leading trumps; thus the needed game trick in Clubs was obtained in the play rather than by the actual laid down values held.

"The Vagabond Lover" Will Introduce Popular Songs

Selections of Dominion Theatre Offering Chosen by Rudy Vallee Himself—Star Is Well Supported by Bevy of Actors and Actresses

Music... music... music! Five luring love songs from the golden throat of America's newest idol—Rudy Vallee!

Saxophone and clarinet solos by the same master of these two instruments!

A complete colorful orchestral background, by the Connecticut Yankees, who, under Vallee's leadership, have charmed the world.

Such is the extravagant musical festival offered patrons at the Dominion Theatre, where Radio Pictures' all-talking film, "The Vagabond Lover" is playing Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of this week.

The songs which will be crooned from the screen by Vallee are: "I Love You, Believe Me, I Love You," "I'll Be Reminded of You," "If You Were the Only Girl and I Were the Only Boy," "A Little Kiss Each Morning, a Little Kiss Each Night" and "I'm Just a Vagabond Lover." The selections were made by Rudy himself, who inspected more than 200 songs for his screen debut.

Marshall Neilan, the director, with a colorful story based on incidents in Rudy Vallee's life, has produced one of the most lavish musical shows ever seen on the screen.

Sally Blane, Radio Pictures' baby starlet is the foil for the hero's love-making. Others in the cast include Marie Dressler, Nella Walker, Eddie Nugent, Danny O'Neil, Alan Roscoe, Charles Sellen and Norman Peck.

MELODY AND DRAMA ENTHRALL

"Romance of Rio Grande" Will Occupy Three Days at Coliseum

Ravishing romance, luring melody, languishing sentiment... tinkling sounds of dusk, alluring glow of moonlight... a song of love that wakes in the heart, flames in the soul and lives in the memory! A man torn between duty and love... a passion flower wilting between the fires of desire and hatred... comedy as light as a maiden's love whisper... drama as tense as the strings of a violin. "Romance of Rio Grande" will send you sailing on the river of adventure and delight and music, showing at the Coliseum Theatre tomorrow, Tuesday and Wednesday.

You'll marvel at the cast, which includes Warner Baxter, Mary Duncan, Antonio Moreno, Robert Edson and Mona Maris.

He was a rich man and a generous one, but he did not like to be "done." On one of his visits to a fashionable resort the hotel proprietor took advantage of his visitor's wealth, and the bill he presented was exorbitant.

The visitor, however, paid without a murmur. Then he said, as he folded the receipt, "By the way, have you any penny stamps?"

"Yes, sir," said the manager. "How many would you like?"

"Er—how many are they apiece?"

"If you haven't a dollar," said the tourist at the hamlet inn, "what happens when anyone is taken seriously ill?"

"Oh, they just die a natural death."

"WOMAN IN PAWN" NOTABLE PICTURE

Among Film Successes, Columbia Offering Will Make Attractive Entertainment

Among big British film successes, "A Woman in Pawn," showing at the Columbia Theatre tomorrow, takes a prominent place, and it is interesting to note that an essential factor of its success lies in the good acting put up by a skilfully built-up cast. The latter has for the principal players, John Stuart, Gladys Jennings, Chilli Boucher, Laurence Maitland, Tarva Penner, Karen Peterson and Evelyn Taylor.

The play is based upon the inevitability of the marriage bond. One man secures another man's wife "in pawn" and the crux of the drama is the discovery of the body of the murdered philanderer under peculiar circumstances involving suspicion of both husband and wife. This mystery surrounding the crime develops into a strong situation between the two.

One further interest is the fact that the producer of the film is a Londoner, whose extensive education spread over studios days at St. Paul's, Cambridge University and Paris, also his subsequent theatrical career, well fit him for production of films offering food for thought as well as entertaining action.

"So you took your son into the business. How is he getting on?"

"Fine! He's teaching me now."

Peonies, sweet peas and roses are appearing and will soon be the pre-dominating flowers offered.

Local tomatoes were down a few cents per pound and several stalls were selling them. Fresh herring were again on sale at the fish stall, also kippers.

Giving Exhibition Of Mountain Art

An exhibition of paintings by Mrs. D. D. Unthoff, a well known Victoria artist, will be held during the week at 744 Fort Street. The subjects of these paintings which she is showing are chiefly mountains, on which she has been working for the past few months during her stay in the neighborhood of Harrison Lake and Quillwack. The mediums used are oils, water colors, tempera and pen and ink, and the subjects are approached from the illustrative point of view, being intended for use in advertising and publicity work. Some posters in tempera show the adaptation of the outdoor sketch to the demands of commercial art and advertising. In this collection Mrs. Unthoff has also included some portrait studies in oils and charcoal.

Star Appears as Hero After Record of Roles as Villain

"Benson Murder Case" Introduces William Powell as Detective Philo Vance, With Plenty of Problems to Unravel Mystery of Crime

Hisses, not kisses, are the lot of the screen villain, but they are responsible for William Powell's sensational rise to film fame. Powell, even as a villain, won the sympathy and love of audiences, so much so that he had to become a hero. And S. S. Van Dine's thrilling murder stories made him the kind of a hero everybody loves. Now he's coming tomorrow to the Capitol Theatre for three days, in the third of the Van Dine "murder cases," "The Benson Murder Case."

Anybody who saw "The Canary Murder Case" and "The Greene Murder Case" will remember Powell's thrilling portrayal of the popular fiction sleuth Philo Vance. In "The Benson Murder Case," Powell plays Philo Vance in an even greater mystery thriller, a puzzler, the like of which has never been seen on the screen before.

Five suspects are hopelessly involved with the killing of a stockbroker and yet nothing can be proved against any of them. Each had his motive for the crime; each had the desire to commit it; but only one of them did commit it, and that's where Philo Vance's brains are required, to lift the mystery to the bottom. The audience is on the puzzle. But Vance surprises everyone, and proves he's right.

Eugene Pallette is more drolly humorous than ever as he turns and twists in the new circles prepared for him by Van Dine. And E. H. Calvert, as the district attorney, is more feverish than ever with an election hanging on the solution of the mystery.

The Newlynweds had bought a chicken, and as Newlynweds was an amateur at carving, his wife insisted on his learning how to carve from the cookery book, so that he should not display his ignorance before their guests.

When the fowl appeared on the table, the host was plainly at a loss how to begin.

"Why don't you carve it, dear?" asked his wife anxiously. "You know exactly how to do it."

"Of course, I do, love," said Newlynweds, "but I can't find any of the dotted lines."

"Well, ma'am," he replied, "if they weren't there, where were they?"

The sultan was asking the wealthy father for permission to marry his daughter. "And would you love my daughter just as much if she had no money at all?"

"I would love her just as much if she had no money at all," replied the young man.

"Enough!" said the father. "I want no half-wits in my family."

Homes of Beauty & Comfort

Home Atmosphere Of This Dwelling Secures Approval

Shingle-Clad House Makes Appeal to Occupants, as Illustrated in "Hillsboro," Containing Six Rooms, Bath and Sun Parlor—House Designed as Practically Square

While Compact in Plan All Conveniences Exist

ONE of the appeals of the shingle-clad house is the homey atmosphere which it invariably carries. Shingles have long been the source of protection from the weather and those houses that use shingles as siding have that feeling. The home builder who is constructing a small house will seldom go wrong when using shingles as siding. They are always effective and are especially desirable to convey that homey sheltered atmosphere which should characterize the small dwelling.

The Hillsboro contains six rooms, rooms and bath are on the second floor and sun parlor. The sleeping floor.

Each of the floors is laid out to take advantage of the space without waste of material. The house is approximately square, being twenty-four by twenty-five feet in dimensions. Most architects and builders consider the square house to be a most economical one because a minimum of roofing and foundation walls are needed. These two items increase the final cost of the house considerably.

The Hillsboro is a house that will fit very satisfactorily on a medium sized lot. Its appearance from the street is striking, the roof lines, the stone chimney and the well-placed windows all combine to give the dwelling a pleasing appearance. From the side and rear the Hillsboro is equally satisfactory in design.

CONVENIENTLY ARRANGED

The home-builder will be pleased with the interior arrangements of the Hillsboro. The sun parlor, eight feet by ten feet in dimension, occupies space immediately to the right of the entrance. The living-room opens off the vestibule and is 17½ by 12½ feet in size. This room is well lighted by windows on two sides and by the light from the sun parlor.

The plastered wall of the living-room have been tinted and are paneled with moulding. The floor is constructed of hard wood. Electrical outlets are found at convenient intervals around the room so that the home owner can use an abundance of floor lamps should he so desire.

A brick fireplace is an added feature that increases the appeal of the living-room.

The staircase leading to the floor above is at the right of the living-room. It runs up to a broad landing, lighted by a window. The staircase makes a square turn when ascending further to the second floor.

DINING-ROOM

Behind the living-room is the dining-room, well lighted by three windows at one side and a pair of French doors at the rear. The doors lead out to a grass terrace where meals may be served on hot summer days.

To the right is the kitchen, approached through a swinging door. It is approximately the same size as the dining-room and is also well lighted by windows on two sides. At the outer side of the room is the sink flanked on each side by pantry cases or built-in cupboards, this group completely filling the end of the room.

At the rear is a door leading out on a small back porch. A range in the inner corner of the room completes the layout of this workshop of the home.

A swinging door leads to a service hall beneath the staircase. From here steps lead down to a landing, thence to the basement. A side door on the grade opens to this service landing.

THREE CHAMBERS ABOVE

On the second floor are three sleeping rooms, each with cross ventilation and ample closet space. The floors are hardwood, while the walls are papered in attractive designs. Each room will hold comfortably the usual array of furniture that is found in the chamber without crowding, yet none of these rooms is so large that heating is difficult.

The bathroom is to be the front of the house, just off the staircase. It contains a built-in tub. The floor is tiled in an attractive design. The wainscot is constructed of tiled wall board, while the plaster walls above are enameled.

HOT AIR FURNACE

The bathroom is in the front of the house, just off the staircase. It contains a built-in tub. The floor is tiled in an attractive design. The wainscot is constructed of tiled wall board, while the plaster walls above are enameled.

The laundry is situated in the rear of the basement. Two built-in laundry tubs comprise the equipment for this portion of the housework. There is ample room for drying clothes indoors if that be necessary.

Built-In Wardrobes Replace Closets In Many Homes

Some of the more modern homes are being constructed with built-in wardrobes instead of the more customary closets.

The Hillsboro, a Pleasant Dwelling

The Cozy, Homey Appearance of the Hillsboro is Achieved Through the Use of Shingles on the Roof and for Siding. It is Nearly Square, Being 24 by 25 Feet, and Has Six Rooms, Bath and Sun Parlor.

tomary closets.

These wardrobes, or clothes presses as they are sometimes called, extend from the floor to the ceiling. They are about thirty inches deep and may be five or six feet wide. Swinging doors open up and allow clothes to be removed from the interior. A shelf of convenient height allows hats and other articles to be placed in the wardrobe.

Above the wardrobe proper are several small compartments behind doors, which may be used for the storage of hat boxes and miscellaneous articles. At the base is a series of drawers of average size.

Such an arrangement as this eliminates the closet, which takes up considerable space, and often is not used to capacity. The wardrobe is deep enough to allow clothes poles to be placed parallel to the wall, thus permitting all clothes to be hung conveniently.

BRACKET LAMPS FOR BEDROOMS

Electrical Equipment for This Section of House is Desirable

The lighting of the bedroom today is being done mainly by bracket lamps, boudoir and table lamps, although a central fixture may be included, mainly for decorative effect. It is essential in a well-equipped bedroom that there be either brackets beside the dressing table of the lady, or portable candlesticks upon them. Shades may be made to match the hangings or decorations of the rooms.

At least two duplex outlets should be provided in each room. The reason duplex outlets are recommended is so that curling irons, vibrators and such devices may be plugged-in at the same time as the lights are being used on the dressing table.

A duplex outlet near the bed may be used for a reading lamp as well as for the warming pad, radiant heater or sewing machine motor.

PACIFIC ENTRANCE

GUNS ARE USED

By JULIAN F. HAAS

(Copyright, 1930, by The Chicago Daily News Foreign Service.)

BALBOA, Panama Canal Zone,

May 17.—Residents on the Pacific side of the Canal Zone were rudely awakened this morning, believing that the canal was being attacked, when the steady hum of twenty airplanes flying out to sea mingled with loud, earth-shaking explosions never before felt, and reminiscent to the ears of World War veterans of "land mines" used during the overseas conflict.

It was nothing but the sixteen-inch guns, considered the finest in the world, which stand guard over the Pacific entrance to the Panama

Canal at Port Amador, which were being fired for the first time at targets twenty-five miles out at sea, while the airplanes were furnishing the eyes for the guns, reports of the position of a mythical enemy being radioed to officers at the batteries.

The projectiles weighed more than a ton each, and cost several thousand dollars. It was the first time that their type ever was fired here, and the results are being closely watched by War Department officials sent down from Washington. Captain Benjamin Bowering is commanding the batteries, while

Colonel James Mars directs the activities of the airplanes. Special importance is being attached to this defence test, which includes a liaison between aircraft and ground batteries at a distant target.

First Student: "And how did your folks take it?"

Second Student: "Mother said

'Mad!' and father said the same—

'backwards.'"

A TIRING JOB

A man walked up to the foreman of a gang working in the road.

"Why," he exclaimed in amazement, "if it isn't my old pal Joe!"

The foreman instantly recognized his long-lost friend.

"Hello, Bill," he said, "out of work?"

"Yes," replied the other. "Got a job going?"

"Sure, mate," said the foreman.

"Just mix yourself in that gang of men, and come to me tonight and I'll give you a day's pay."

There is only one thing more wonderful than the way we put up with some people, and that is the way other people put up with us.

THE Fast-Freezing

KELVINATOR

the new, better help in food preparation

KELVINATOR freezes desserts faster and more successfully than any other domestic refrigerator. That is just one of the results of its wonderful 4-Way Cold.

Now, for the first time, automatic refrigeration—

as developed exclusively by Kelvinator—becomes of major importance in the preparation of foods.

With the new and greater Kelvinator

you can always have ready those dainty and delicious dishes which—lacking

Kelvinator's help—are so difficult to prepare.

More than this—Kelvinator's "below-freezing" Cold Storage Compartment—in de luxe models—enables you to keep these desserts or salads for days at a time. The same compartment is an ideal storage place for extra ice; for game, fish, meats—and for the frozen fruits, vegetables, meats and fish which are now coming into general use.

One of our representatives is as near as your telephone or visit our showroom for a demonstration of these new features.

Only KELVINATOR Gives

1 More Ice—because Kelvinator's ice capacity—size for size—is greater.

2 Super-Fast Freezing—because of Iso-Thermic Tubes—an exclusive Kelvinator feature.

3 Cold Storage—in de luxe models, a large compartment kept always at below-freezing cold.

4 Scientific Refrigeration—40° to 50°—in main food compartment—safe and correct cold for all foods.

All these four degrees of cold are maintained constantly, separately, automatically.

FINANCE - COMMERCE - MARKETS

More Interest in Derby And Brokers' Week-end Outing Than in Trading

NEW YORK, May 17.—The Stock Exchange all but took a vacation today. There was probably more interest in the Kentucky Derby, and a brokers' week-end outing than in trading, and the market called it a day after only 790,850 shares had changed hands.

It was the smallest volume since August, 1928, and a fitting climax to a colorless week, as well as a sharp contrast to May 3, which set a new high record for Saturday business.

General Electric, American Can, U.S. Steel, American Telephone and Radio were extremely dull, and surrendered such leadership as there was to the rail; the packing shares and a few specialties in which feeble operations were resumed.

GAIRS ARE SLIGHT
If the market had a definite trend, it was upward, but in only a limited number of instances did the gains in the active issues run beyond a point or two.

A 12 per cent gain in the value of planned construction, as measured by S. W. Strauss & Co., over which the March total was somewhat encouraging.

The oils, amusement, aviation and utility shares met moderate pressure, and Warner Brothers Picture, National Air Transport and United Aircraft eased.

Buying of rails embraced the dividend payers. New York Central and Union Pacific responded with gains of one to two points.

IMPROVED TONE
Bond prices showed a slightly improved tone. The trend continued mixed by recessions, which have been general the past two days, were fewer as investment issues gained some firmness.

Sales were only $3,500,000, about

CHICAGO MART RATHER EASIER

With No Material Pressure Advance Follows—Buying Brought on by Weather Reports

ARGENTINE WEAKNESS INDUCES SELLING

(B.C. Bond Corporation, Ltd.)

CHICAGO, May 17.—Wheat market was slightly easier early, declining 1-2. There was no material pressure, however, and an advance of around 1 1/2-2 from the low followed on buying induced by cold weather over the West, with and snow at some points in Nebraska, and the traders were apprehensive over possible weather developments over Sunday.

Profit taking was responsible for a reaction from the outside figures. There was some selling of futures here, attributed to foreign account. Export demand active. Sales nearly 1,000,000 bushels Manitoba, the bulk of which was understood to have been sold by the pool. This makes around 4,000,000 bushels of North American wheat sold in past three days.

Liverpool reported a cargo of 110,000 bushels North American wheat sold to United Kingdom at 112 1/2-2 per bushel. Private cables said weather conditions on continent were very favorable. A condition of German wheat reported as highest in thirty years, with one exception, Liverpool 1-2 to 5-6 higher, while Buenos Aires was 3-4 lower. There was some local selling here on weakness in Argentine market. Free Press report was construed as favorable.

Corn was easy early and stronger later, due to unfavorable weather conditions over Iowa last night. Forecast is for continued cool weather. Buenos Aires closed 1-4 to 3-4 lower. Oats were unsettled, but prices held within relatively narrow limits, following other grains. Trade in rye was not large and market was influenced mainly by action of wheat. Liverpool due 3-4 to 7-8 higher.

Jim the Conqueror

By PETER B. KYNE

CHAPTER XX

"You are fond of music?" Don Jaime queried. Roberta nodded and he tossed a quick order in Spanish to one of his dusky maids. "Going to turn on the radio," the girl thought. "Why does he do it? It spoils everything."

Again she had evidence of the fact that, whether she wanted to or not, she was destined to tune in with this man's peculiar personality. "Not the radio, senorita, nor yet the victrola," he said gently. "I prefer the music of my people."

From behind the climbing passion vines on the gallery across the patio a guitar was strummed; Roberta heard the mellow notes of a harp as unseen fingers ran the scale. Then a girl's voice—without much volume, but wondrously sweet and sympathetic—commenced to sing "La Colondrina."

"When I am unhappy," Don Jaime explained, "they sing that sad song to me and make me happier."

"Why don't you have them sing something joyful. They will sing whatever you desire, I take it?"

"My dear Miss Antrim, no Higgins wants to be made happy when he's unhappy. It's like enjoying poor health. We must feed our racial melancholy."

"You incorrigible Celt! Are these professional entertainers brought out from Los Algodones?"

"No, they're part of the ranch assets. That harp has been in our family since the first Higgins emigrated to Madrid. Carmen Caraveo, my riding boss' daughter, yearned to play it, so I sent her to El Paso for six months to get the hang of it. After that she had to figure it out for herself. She'd never do for the Metropolitan Opera, of course, but she's pretty good for this corner of Texas. When she has finished singing 'La Colondrina' to her own accompaniment her sister Conchita will strum a wicked guitar then sing 'El Cielo'—Hello, but you getting sleepy? Tired after your long ride today, eh? I told you so."

The purple shadows crept over the patio, the music sobbed and mourned behind the passion vines, and the saddle-colored maid came out with some meat scraps on a plate and set them on a table beside her master, who whistled shrilly, whereupon two English setters crashed the screen door leading to the gallery and came leaping to accept, in the polite manner of their breed, the meat scraps Don Jaime fed them; retreating, when the meal was finished, to a discreet distance, where they sat and gazed at their master with love in their lambent brown eyes.

Presently Don Jaime shook Robbie gently. "Come, son," he said softly. "Say your prayers—in Spanish, as I have taught you. Nuestro padre—"

The sleepy voice spoke haltingly the unfamiliar words, the man prompting him from time to time. When the prayer was finished he rose and, with the boy in his arms, stooped over Mrs. Ganby that she might kiss her son good night. Then he passed around the table to Roberta's chair. "Innocence and helplessness," Roberta heard him murmur. "Who could not love it!" He stooped over her and lowered the boy until the childish lips brushed her cheek; then he bore the lad off to bed.

The two women exchanged glances, the mother's eyes were moist. "That is the Latin in him, Miss Antrim. He's not afraid to demonstrate his affection. What a pity he hasn't a son of his own to waste the thrills of his big boy's heart on!"

Roberta did not answer. She was thinking of a remark that Crooked Bill had once made in her presence. "When children and dogs love a man a woman is usually safe with him." She wondered now if Glenn Hackett loved children, and dogs and decided presently that he would love his own children, if and when he had them, but that he would not be interested in dogs or human beings beneath him in the social scale. And she thought of Julio Ortiz, with a bullet through his belly, dying in a border foray for Don Jaime Miguel Higuera, filled with pride in his sacrifice, relaxed at the last by that perfect touch of democracy which had decreed that he should perish in his master's arms.

"He is a strange man, Mrs. Ganby," she declared at last. "I have never met his kind before. I do not know what to make of him—whether to like or dislike him, to fear him or to trust him. He killed my uncle and then, masquerading under the name of Jim Higgins he induced me to accept the hospitality of Jaime Higuera. Where I come from one doesn't do that sort of thing, you know."

"Don Jaime is a free soul. He does as he pleases."

"How long have you known him, Mrs. Ganby?"

"Since three days after he killed your uncle. I am a trained nurse and I came down here to tend his wounds, although he would have recovered without my aid, for he is as healthy as a horse. Later he asked me to be his housekeeper, but since he does not appear to regard me as a servant, I imagine I am a sort of paid hostess. I think he had a hope that you might visit the ranch some day, and of course, you would never have visited it unless he had a diuenna here. He is very punctilious in matters of social propriety."

"And Robbie?"

"When he discovered I had a little crippled son he sent his general manager to El Paso to bring the boy here. He knew I'd want him with me, of course."

"I understand. Innocence and helplessness. Of course, his heart went out to Robbie."

"Children understand, Miss Antrim. I think Don Jaime is a man who likes a fight. He is tremendously interested in that atrophied leg of Robbie's. Lately he has started massaging it, stretching it, studying it. He has been sending for medical treatises on infantile paralysis and talks of sending Robbie east to be treated."

—Old Mother Nature.

Grandfather Frog sat on his big green lily-pod in the Smiling Pool. His big goggle eyes seemed to be half closed. Not even when a foolish green fly came past did those eyes open. Grandfather Frog looked as if he were taking a sun nap. Not far away Mrs. Quack and all the baby Quacks were very busy getting something to eat. Grandfather Frog could get glimpses of them now and then when they would come out from behind little tussocks of grass or bulrushes, but when he couldn't see them he could hear them. He didn't seem to be in the reality he was in. But in reality he was.

By and by Mrs. Quack led all the baby Quacks—nine of them—out into the open water of the Smiling Pool. Such a good time as they had then! They ducked their heads under water and flapped their tiny wings just as they had seen their mother flap her big wings, and swam round and round, having a lovely time. Meanwhile, Mrs. Quack, after looking in all directions to see that none of the Hawk family was in sight, nor Billy Mink, nor Reddy Fox, nor Snapper the Snapping Turtle, swam over to get some corn, where Farmer Brown's Boy had thrown it in the Smiling Pool. It was her usual feeding place and it was near where Grandfather Frog was sitting.

Now, Mrs. Quack was very hungry. Despite her watchfulness she failed to notice Grandfather Frog. Perhaps that was because he didn't move and his coat was so much the color of the green things around. Had she noticed it she would have warned the babies to keep away from there. But she didn't notice and presently she was very busy tipping up and standing on her head in the water, while she picked up that delicious yellow corn on the bottom. Each time when she righted herself she took a hasty look at the babies to make quite sure that they were safe. Then down she would go again.

Now, right there the water was too deep for the babies to tip up and reach the bottom. Besides, they were not hungry now, anyway. So they just played around. By and by one of them by chance discovered Grandfather Frog. Grandfather Frog had moved ever so little. Right away the babies gathered around at a safe distance, to stare at this curious old fellow. They had already seen some little frogs, but never had they seen one as big as Grandfather Frog, and they didn't know what to make of it.

The purple shadows crept over the patio, the music sobbed and mourned behind the passion vines, and the saddle-colored maid came out with some meat scraps on a plate and set them on a table beside her master, who whistled shrilly, whereupon two English setters crashed the screen door leading to the gallery and came leaping to accept, in the polite manner of their breed, the meat scraps Don Jaime fed them; retreating, when the meal was finished, to a discreet distance, where they sat and gazed at their master with love in their lambent brown eyes.

Presently Don Jaime shook Robbie gently. "Come, son," he said softly. "Say your prayers—in Spanish, as I have taught you. Nuestro padre—"

The sleepy voice spoke haltingly the unfamiliar words, the man prompting him from time to time. When the prayer was finished he rose and, with the boy in his arms, stooped over Mrs. Ganby that she might kiss her son good night. Then he passed around the table to Roberta's chair. "Innocence and helplessness," Roberta heard him murmur. "Who could not love it!" He stooped over her and lowered the boy until the childish lips brushed her cheek; then he bore the lad off to bed.

The two women exchanged glances, the mother's eyes were moist. "That is the Latin in him, Miss Antrim. He's not afraid to demonstrate his affection. What a pity he hasn't a son of his own to waste the thrills of his big boy's heart on!"

Roberta did not answer. She was thinking of a remark that Crooked Bill had once made in her presence. "When children and dogs love a man a woman is usually safe with him." She wondered now if Glenn Hackett loved children, and dogs and decided presently that he would love his own children, if and when he had them, but that he would not be interested in dogs or human beings beneath him in the social scale. And she thought of Julio Ortiz, with a bullet through his belly, dying in a border foray for Don Jaime Miguel Higuera, filled with pride in his sacrifice, relaxed at the last by that perfect touch of democracy which had decreed that he should perish in his master's arms.

"He is a strange man, Mrs. Ganby," she declared at last. "I have never met his kind before. I do not know what to make of him—whether to like or dislike him, to fear him or to trust him. He killed my uncle and then, masquerading under the name of Jim Higgins he induced me to accept the hospitality of Jaime Higuera. Where I come from one doesn't do that sort of thing, you know."

"Don Jaime is a free soul. He does as he pleases."

"How long have you known him, Mrs. Ganby?"

"Since three days after he killed your uncle. I am a trained nurse and I came down here to tend his wounds, although he would have recovered without my aid, for he is as healthy as a horse. Later he asked me to be his housekeeper, but since he does not appear to regard me as a servant, I imagine I am a sort of paid hostess. I think he had a hope that you might visit the ranch some day, and of course, you would never have visited it unless he had a diuenna here. He is very punctilious in matters of social propriety."

"And Robbie?"

"When he discovered I had a little crippled son he sent his general manager to El Paso to bring the boy here. He knew I'd want him with me, of course."

"I understand. Innocence and helplessness. Of course, his heart went out to Robbie."

"Children understand, Miss Antrim. I think Don Jaime is a man who likes a fight. He is tremendously interested in that atrophied leg of Robbie's. Lately he has started massaging it, stretching it, studying it. He has been sending for medical treatises on infantile paralysis and talks of sending Robbie east to be treated."

one foot, swung his legs up on to it and settled back for a good evening of music.

The song ended and Don Jaime looked up, a gleam of sadness of resignation in the last eyes. "Now that you have made up your mind not to dislike me or the task of trying to like me, I have a confession to make."

"I'll try to bear up under it."

"A few days after I shot it out with your uncle, his man, Bill Dingle and five others came over here with the intention of doing me great bodily harm—lynching me to one of the cross-pieces in that heavy trellis in the grape arbor yonder, as a matter of fact. I captured Dingle and his idiots and confined them in my private battle here for thirty days. Before turning them loose I had my foreman flog them all."

"Oh, Jaime!"

"That's the sort of bad egg I am, senorita. That's why I was wearing two guns today. By the way, can you sing Gounod's 'Ave Maria'?"
